

Whole Cities Foundation Partner Messaging

What is Whole Cities Foundation?

Whole Cities Foundation helps expand access to fresh, healthy food and nutrition education. Through a community-led process, we fund grants to nonprofits with food access projects like urban farms, mobile markets, and community gardens.

Our approach is guided by our Community First Principles to build partnerships with locally-led organizations to help create thriving local food systems and grow community health.

How we do our work...

- We support locally-led, locally-supported, and often overlooked organizations that are leading homegrown solutions.
- We work with local organizations to craft our grant programs and get the word out about opportunities.
- Our grants are chosen by community members/ peers.
- We offer responsive support shaped by community members' evolving realities and goals.
- We believe in shifting power dynamics both between philanthropy and community and within communities themselves.
